What is the secret of good preaching? A man should not preach at all, unless he has a message. A fondness for talking, a love of display, or a desire for prominence should not be a motive impelling any man to preach. At the back of all really good preaching are a consecrated life, a prepared mind, a gift of utterance and a message to help the souls of men. In "The Art of Sermon Construction" T.H. Scambler teaches us exactly what type of person it takes to be a good preacher, how to prepare a sermon, and how to preach it! No stone is left unturned in this magnificent volume.
